Did you know?

31%

of Tri-Cities children ages 0-6 are vulnerable and are more likely to struggle in school and in later life.

We ensure kids have access to high quality programs that help them with their overall development and well-being so they can have a bright future.

of Tri-Cities kids report low well-being.

We help kids participate in after-school programs that keep them safe and give them a sense of belonging, so they reach their full potential.

31,860

seniors live in the Tri-Cities. 21% live alone.

We help seniors stay independent and active by supporting programs and services that keep them in their homes and communities.

How we help

Fuelled by people like you, United Way works every day to level the playing field for those in need. Here's how we do it:

Investing in programs and services with measurable results

Collaborating to bring stakeholders together

Researching to understand community needs and plan for the future

Advocating to help people understand the issues
